

ENFORCE DRY LAW, COOLIDGE WARNS

State Chiefs Pledge Aid To Nation's Head

Governors Promise Co-operation In Memorial To National Executive

IS COMPLICATED SITUATION

Pinchot Takes Advantage Of Muddle To Further His Political Aims

Washington—Calvin Coolidge takes up one of the most troublesome problems confronting him as president and as a political figure in a meeting Saturday with the governors of the several states to discuss enforcement of the prohibition, immigration and narcotic laws.

The prohibition phase of the conference holds by far the most for good or for ill for the president and his administration and the interest in that phase has been increased by recent developments in the prohibition enforcement situation, and the great increased discussion of the dry law enforcement problem.

The conference in its prohibition aspect is a heritage from the administration of President Harding who had planned a meeting with the state executives last spring to consider means of closer cooperation in making the prohibition laws effective. Lengthy sessions by some state legislatures which would have prevented attendance of governors caused Mr. Harding to postpone the conference, and Mr. Coolidge in assuming the presidency upon Mr. Harding's death undertook to carry out that plan as well as other policies of the late President.

NOT DRY CONFERENCE

Mr. Coolidge has added to the conference program, however, the consideration of the enforcement of the immigration and narcotic laws.

White House officials have taken pains to emphasize that the meeting Saturday is not a prohibition conference but a law enforcement conference.

The governors in coming to the conference have fresh in their minds the heated discussion of the prohibition question at the closing session Friday at West Baden, Ind., of the fifteenth annual governors' conference.

The conference adopted a resolution pledging to President Coolidge the enforcement of prohibition after a stormy debate and amid a shouting and stamping of feet during which Governor Parker of Louisiana left the meeting.

Fresh also in the minds of those attending the White House conference is the action of the citizenship conference held here early in the week by leading prohibition supporters, in declaring that the nation looks to President Coolidge to assert and maintain the majesty of the laws. This declaration in effect backed up the stand taken by Governor Pinchot of Pennsylvania, one of the speakers at the citizenship conference that prohibition enforcement was up to the president who should personally supervise the enforcement activities.

PINCHOT SEEKS NOMINATION

The Pennsylvania governor, prior to the conference, had engaged in a move to close the saloons of Philadelphia, and this action, together with his address here, has been matters of much comment in view of the belief held by some political observers that Mr. Pinchot is out to capture the Republican presidential nomination from Mr. Coolidge next year if possible.

Breaking into the midst of this discussion of the prohibition question, Prohibition Commissioner Harnes, several days ago launched a big dry drive in New York and only Friday embarked on a campaign to stop home brewing. Public attention was further riveted on the prohibition issue by publication Saturday of a letter written to the president by August A. Busch, of Anheuser-Busch, Inc., of St. Louis, declaring that the attempt to enforce the prohibition laws had corrupted the federal service, uprooted respect for all law, and set back many years the cause of real temperance.

BLAINE FAVORS ARMAMENT FOR KEEPING PEACE

Governor Tells Chicago German Club His Views On International Muddle

U. S. POLICY IS DRIFTING

Badger Executive Blames "British Imperialistic Policy" For Trouble

Chicago—Coal, oil and steel "protectors," "spheres of influence" and "all foreign entanglements" are firebrands which the hands of America should not touch in its international policy, Governor John J. Blaine of Wisconsin said in an address Saturday before the German club of Chicago.

He declared the nation's international policy was a drifting one, promising nothing but the possibility of future wars. Because of the isolation of America, foreign arrogant imperialism looks upon it as an easy victim to be dragged into wars for foreign gain and exploitation, he said. A worse situation, however, he contended, would exist if the United States bound itself to a league of nations or a world court.

The governor said that America could re-establish its traditional doctrine for international relationship without the consent of a single nation. Then he suggested a defensive force on land and sea "which will be the greatest antidote against wars."

"After a traditional doctrine is established for the purpose of protecting the American doctrine," the Governor said, "a defensive force on land and sea will make it never necessary again for an American soldier or sailor to leave the threshold of his country to protect his country."

What he termed "Great Britain's arrogant imperial policy" has brought America into constant conflict with the British Empire, the governor continued. Until 1902, he said, the United States had held its own course "never permitting a policy, which Great Britain initiated, that a strong nation has a right to ride down a weaker nation."

U. S. IDEALS BETRAYED

When in 1902 America conceded the right of other nations to intervene with force, he declared every ideal of a long established American doctrine was betrayed.

"Imperialism has lost for us a large share of our independent national existence, and the repudiation of our fundamental Americanism finds us today with the world's markets closed to us, and we are staggering under a world indebtedness incurred in destruction and bloodshed," Governor Blaine said.

"Oil in Asia, iron and coal in the Ruhr; There's the rub," Poincaré, attorney for French steel magnates, and Stresemann's connections I know not, but it is clear that with the industrial situation in Great Britain behind the scenes, with steel, iron and coal magnates of France, Germany and Great Britain, with the part played by the United States Steel Trust unknown, the diplomacy of Europe is shaped, a diplomacy exercised in the exploitation of the people of those nations."

TWO CHURCHES HAVE JUBILEE SERVICES

Secord Heart And German Methodist Congregations To Celebrate

Two Appleton churches will celebrate anniversaries with special services on Sunday. German Methodist church will observe the twenty-fifth anniversary of dedication of its church with three services at which former pastors will be speakers.

Sacred Heart church is celebrating the twenty-fifth anniversary of founding of the congregation. Special services will be held in the morning and a bazaar in the afternoon.

Sacred Heart congregation bought its property from the German Methodist church when the latter moved to its present location.

POSTAL EMPLOYEES HOLD FIRST MEETING OF SEASON

After several months of inactivity, the Appleton Postoffice association will hold its first meeting of the fall and winter season Saturday evening at the postoffice. Supper will be served the members in the basement. Postmaster William H. Zuehlke will give a talk on the annual convention of postmasters which he attended last week. Methods of improvement of the postal service will be discussed in general at the meeting, and plans may be made for the winter activities.

Winner Among 400,000

No wonder 13-year-old Theodora Peole of Lansing, Mich., is so happy now. Why, her essay on good roads was selected by the Highway Education Board as the best in 400,000, submitted by school children the country over. She wrote it while living in Pontiac, Wis. And now she goes to Washington, as the guest of the National Chamber of Commerce, and gets a gold watch, besides.

Smoot Says Bonus Law Would Prevent Revision Of Taxes

Utah Senator Tells Lawrence His Policies In Regard To Revenue Legislation For Coming Session

BY DAVID LAWRENCE

Copyright, 1923, by the Post Pub. Co.

Washington—Senator Smoot, chairman of the senate finance committee Friday gave the writer his reasons for believing it unwise to press for tax revision at the coming session of congress. Mr. Smoot has an engagement Saturday with President Coolidge who wants to know the Utah senator's views before writing his first address to congress.

"I did not say the other day," said Mr. Smoot, "that $500,000,000 could be lopped off our income taxes. I simply pointed out that we could reduce our taxes by two hundred million dollars. This means that if we do not have a solid bonus bill, if there is no public buildings bill, and if we cut down government expenditures, it would be possible to reduce the amount of our appropriations by $500,000,000. This would leave $100,000,000 to be raised from sources other than taxation and I was taking into account the $175,000,000 of interest which we are pledged to receive from Great Britain on the war debt, thus leaving a surplus of about $175,000,000."

"Now that's a different thing from adding the cut in taxes and the cut in appropriations to make an imaginary saving of $500,000,000."

FAVORS AMENDMENT

"My position with reference to tax revision is simply this: I would be delighted to see the revenue laws amended. There are dozens of imperfections in the wording of the law, for instance, which ought to be corrected. I would favor also the removal of discriminatory taxes such as those that are imposed on candy, jewelry, telegrams and special classes of business."

"But this is a campaign year and if we open up the tax question now, it will be politics in it from beginning to end. The house might pass a bill with certain changes in the law but the radicals in the senate might be able to insist that it all be stricken out and a substitute measure enacted. ## SEEK TRACES OF CLUBMAN LOST ON VACATION TRIP

Insurance Companies Send Sleuths To Find Solution Of Mystery

By Associated Press

Coudray — Representatives of insurance companies carrying policies on the life of Chas. J. Rockwood, missing Des Moines clubman who was insured for $25,000 have been at Mason Lake searching all available facts concerning Rockwood's mysterious disappearance from there on Sep. 1.

Insurance companies claim they have traced a man believed to be Rockwood, who at first was thought drowned in Mason where his boat and hat were found, as far as Coudray where he is alleged to have purchased a ticket to Dunith. Since the recovery of a man in an alley at Phoenix, Ariz., who claims he is the missing Rockwood the insurance representatives have redoubled their efforts to get at the bottom of the mystery. If the man at Phoenix is really Rockwood then there will be no need of the insurance being paid but if the identity of the Arizona man cannot be satisfactorily established and the whereabouts of Rockwood remain unknown, the insurance companies fear they will have a case similar to the E. J. Salsstad suit confronting them.

NO TIME LIMIT ON BOOZE PRESCRIPTIONS, IS RULE

Washington—No time limit restrictions for the honoring of physicians' prescriptions for liquor have been set, it was stated at prohibition headquarters, in answer to reports that prohibition agents had been ordered to treat with suspicion prescriptions which had not been promptly filled.

Use Limit Of Power To Make U.S. Obey Law Executives Are Told

Text Of Speech

Washington, D. C.—The text of the President's address follows:

"It is my peculiar privilege to welcome you here as one, who by experience can look at your problems with that sympathy which comes from common fellowship. The governorship of a sovereign state of our nation is an exalted position. It outranks within its own jurisdiction with a single exception every other office in America. It is the very greatest honor or that a state can bestow. A gathering of governors has a significance greater than any other unofficial convocation that can be held in the United States."

"It would only be a matter of large public importance that could justify a gathering of the chief executives of the states and the nation for a conference at Washington. You have been invited here that I might lay before you some of the problems for a better enforcement of law. A statement of the purpose is sufficient to indicate the importance, for a government which does not enforce its laws is unworthy the name of a government and cannot expect to hold either the support of its own citizens, or the respect of the informed opinion of the world."

MUST HAVE JOINT ACTION

"That ours is a dual system of administration does not need to be explained in this presence. Joint powers and joint responsibilities exist which can best be exercised and discharged by joint action."

"With certain exceptions of aliens, easily distinguishable have been excluded from this country for a considerable length of time, a general policy of restricting immigration, broadly inclusive, has only recently been adopted."

The new law admits approximately 350,000 aliens, or about one third of the number coming in annually under the old law before the war, on the other hand, the number desiring to enter is much larger, and attempts to evade the law greatly increased. It is estimated by the department of labor that there is a seepage over the border and through the ports, of about 100,000 which is a considerable menace to the success of our immigration policy. Such an influx of persons entering the country in violation of the law cannot fail to attract the attention of the local police authorities along our borders and on our sea coasts, who can be of very great assistance in notifying the local representatives of the department of justice or the department of labor in order that such persons may more readily be excluded and deported."

STATES ARE RESPONSIBLE

"No provision of the eighteenth amendment or the national prohibition act contemplates any surrender of state responsibility. Under them prohibition becomes obligatory in all states, for the constitution and the laws made in pursuance thereof are specifically declared by the federal constitution to be the supreme law of the land. They are binding upon every inhabitant. But, there still remains to the states the power, specifically reserved in the eighteenth amendment, to pass enforcing acts, and there is still on them a joint responsibility to enact and execute enforcement laws, which may not at first be exercised, but which can never be avoided."

"The complementary duty to enforcement of the law is obedience to the law. That rests with the people themselves. The eighteenth amendment prohibits manufacture, transportation, sale, export and import. These are the commercial activities. Trade in intoxicating liquors for beverage purposes is especially denounced. It is in this field that most of difficulty exists. The main problem arises from those who are bent on making money by an illegal traffic in intoxicating liquors. If this could be eliminated the rest would be easy."

"These problems must be taken directly to the American people. This government is their government; these laws are their laws. They have formed their government and enacted their laws with all due solemnity, to promote their welfare and protect their liberties. There are not a nation of inebriates; they are not a people who can be charged with being hypocrites. They have no patience with the importation and exportation of intoxicating liquors for beverage purposes and confers upon the congress and the several states concurrent power to enact enforcement legislation. This power was exercised by the congress in the national prohibition act which was finally passed in October 1919. Two-thirds of the house of representatives and senate present having voted in the affirmative. Substantially all of the states have likewise passed enforcing acts

Eighteenth Amendment Does Not Take Away State Rights

NO POLITICAL QUESTION

President Offers No Suggestions On Enforcement In Talk To Governors

By Associated Press

Washington, D. C.—President Coolidge called on the Governors of the several states Saturday to assume their full share of responsibility for enforcement of the prohibition laws.

Meeting with more than thirty state executives, who had responded to his invitation to attend a white house conference on law enforcement, Mr. Coolidge flatly declared that "no provision of the eighteenth amendment templates any surrender of state or the national prohibition act co-responsibility."

Provisions of the eighteenth amendment and its supplementary status, the president said, are "perfectly plain" in the directions they give both to the president and the governors of states.

The president suggested no new means of cooperation between the federal government and states and made no comment on the declaration of the governors, "Prohibition is the concern of every citizen and of the nation as a whole." He did say, however, that the problems of law enforcement could not be answered by "political intrigue" or determined "by extremists on either side."

FIND HUGE STILL IN WINNEBAGO CO

Sleuths Believe They Have Unearthed Important Moonshine Ring

Oshkosh—A lonely shack in a woods on a deserted side road off the main highway, five and a half miles southwest of Oshkosh, two sixty gallon copper stills, with the mash bubbling and the coils dripping forth the unlawful fluid into huge containers. All those elements played an important part in a moonshine raid in Winnebago county and as a result one of the biggest and most modern illicit distilleries ever unearthed in this vicinity was wrecked and the alleged still keeper, Frank Preller, was arrested. Preller claimed he was merely working for Norbert Helm, owner of the farm. The authorities believe they have discovered a large sized moonshine ring and other arrests are expected to follow.

protection. I propose to give that support and protection to the law provided by the constitution and the law of the land against every lawless element. The executives are required to enforce the law. The machinery for the enforcement of the law is that supplied by the acts of congress and the acts of the state legislatures. That machinery must be used to the full extent of its capacity to enforce the law. It is certainly my purpose so to use it. The people are going to continue to yield obedience to the law."

"This principle will continue to prevail, whenever the American people shall pass judgement upon it, because it is the foundation of all our institutions."

"We can only make progress with these problems by their frank and candid consideration. They are not going to be decided by prejudices. They are not going to be answered as a result of political intrigue. They are not going to be determined by extremists on either side. They are not going to be solved in accordance with any sordid motive. They will yield to the calm clear judgment of the American people through a determined expression of their high moral purposes. This law represents the voice of the people. Behind it, and supporting it, is a divine sanction, enforcement of law and obedience to law by the very nature of our institutions, are not matters of choice in this republic, but the expression of a moral requirement of living in accordance with the truth. They are clothed with a spiritual significance, in which is revealed the life or the death of the American ideal of self government."

ANNUAL FAIR AT GREENVILLE DRAWS CROWD

More Than 800 Persons Attend
Program And See
Exhibits

By W. F. WINSEY
The Greenville school fair in Heim-els pavilion Friday afternoon and evening was a tremendous success in every particular. The exhibits of the competing districts were arranged on the walls and on tables in the aisle around the dancing floor and the individual entries were exhibited on the walls and tables near the stage. In the evening 800 people were in attendance.

In the booths could be found duplicates of many of the individual entries made by pupils of a district.
Other things made in a school not on the prize list—charts, maps, models of surveys, drawings, jars of seeds of orchard, field and garden crops, crop novelty such as a large potato, ear of corn and home samples of cooking, sewing, pantry stores, Indian relics, spinning wheels, odd furniture and so forth.

The wide range of exhibits from the home on which premiums were offered the farm and the school brought out one of the most creditable displays ever seen in the country in fairs or educational shows in towns or city.

The literary and musical program was presented as announced in the columns of the Post-Crescent a few days ago. Miss Marie Ruber, teacher of High Ridge school announced the various numbers and presided at the fair.
Each district in the town was represented on the program.

CULBERTSON'S IDEA

The idea of holding a township school fair, originated with E. M. Culbertson, chairman of the town board of Greenville, more than a year ago.
He proposed such a fair and an appropriation to pay premiums and other expenses to the other members of the board, Frank Reimer and Henry Paren. As the proposition met the approval of his colleagues, Mr. Culbertson introduced his proposition to the annual town meeting, a year ago last spring. The town meeting not only decided to hold a school fair in which all the school districts in the town were eligible to compete but voted an appropriation of $50. to be used as premiums. As a successful fair was held a year ago.

UNIQUE IN STATE

The Greenville school fair is a unique institution in this county and state. There are many district school fairs held in the county and state but in no other township is a township fair held and in no other township of the state do the taxpayers appropriate money to pay the expense of a school fair. So successful has the fair become in Greenville, that it promises permanency, farther development and the gaining of a foothold in other townships of the county and state.

The agencies used by the town board of Greenville to work out the details of the fair were the teachers' council of Greenville, the office of the county superintendent of schools,
the teachers of the several districts, the supervisors of county schools, the county agent, the district school pupils and the people of the township.

The judges of the individual entries were R. A. Amundsen, county agent, Miss Sophia Schaefer, and Miss Tel-lock.

MILL OWNERS AND RIPARIANS AGREED ON FLOOD CONTROL

T. W. Orbison Represents Mill Owners In Controlling High Water

Two sections of an agreement between riparian land owners and waterpower users which have to do with the height of the water at the Menasha dam and the high water level of Lake Winnebago will be favorably reported up to the officials at Washington and the same regulations will be maintained next year as were in force this year.

That is the expectation as a result of a conference between Colonel Spencer Cosby, division engineer of the lakes division of the war department, and representatives of the riparian and waterpower interests on the United States steamer Fox at Oshkosh this week.

Colonel Cosby expressed great pleasure because of the harmony which was created between the riparian land owners and the waterpower users, ending a dispute of several years' duration. T. W. Orbison, of Appleton, waterpower engineer, was present at the meeting.

Section 1 has reference to the water being held at 6 inches below the crest of the Menasha dam at the opening of navigation in the spring, instead of being at the crest, as formerly. It also gives the waterpower interests the right to draw the water down to 24 inches below the dam crest, instead of 15 inches, as formerly, during the closed season of navigation.

Section 2 refers to the high water mark in Lake Winnebago which is set at 15 inches above the crest of the dam instead of 21 1/2 inches as previously. These two sections will be favorably reported to the officials at Washington.

Whether the waterpower interests shall be permitted to draw the water down to 6 inches below the crest or held at the crest of the dam will be left to the Milwaukee office of federal engineers to determine, depending upon conditions.

It was decided to have City Engineer George Randall for the relief association and Engineer Thomas Orbison for the waterpower users represent the two interests during flood periods, the two cooperating with the Milwaukee office of engineers in the control of flood conditions, the two engineers conferring and determining whether the sluices at the dam shall be closed or opened on account of high water.

Little Chute Municipal Well Has Flow Of 75,000 Gallons Of Water A Day

Adequate Supply Of Pure Water Is Assured By Well Completed Under Direction Of Dr. R. M. Bagg

The village of Little Chute has just completed what may be regarded as one of the most successful wells drilled for municipal water supply in the Fox river valley. A brief description of this deep artesian well enterprise will be of interest not only to the citizens of Little Chute who are to drink and use this water but to the general public also. The well site was located on the banks of the river just below the United States government canal locks by Dr. R. M. Bagg of Lawrence college who selected this site as the most advantageous of the three available locations submitted to him for approval. The well was drilled by J. J. Faust & Sons of Kaukauna under the direction of Dr. Bagg who was engaged as consulting geologist by the village and who was given control of the entire project. The well was drilled 15 inches in diameter to a depth of 102 feet and heavy wrought iron casing with a heavy shoe at the bottom was driven into the limestone base completely shutting off all surface water, river contamination and any possible source of impurity from surface conditions. From this depth the drill bore was reduced to 12 inches and the well carried down to a depth of 421 feet and is bottomed in clean grayish white sand in the Cambrian Sandstone.

The well is now flowing in excess of 75,000 gallons every 24 hours and the water is coming up under pressure. When casing was placed on the well curb pipe eight feet above ground the water filled this 12 inch pipe almost before the casing threads could be caught and it is certain that this well would continue to flow into the air 15 feet if piped.

WATER IS PURE

The water is clear, excellent tasting and has a temperature of 50 degrees Fahrenheit. Bacteriologist tests made by A. J. Hall, chemist of Appleton water department, indicate the water is absolutely safe and free from all bacterial contamination.

A large concrete reservoir with a capacity of 100,000 gallons built by the Appleton Construction company close to this well will be filled in less than two days when the water is turned in. While the water will have to be lifted to the center of the village in another high iron tank reservoir for furnishing city pressure it is doubtful whether any water will have to be pumped from the well itself to furnish the supply.

PLANS APPROVED

The engineering plans for this enterprise were most carefully worked out by the city engineer, A. E. McMahon of Neenah, who had charge of the water main distribution and levels for water supply to all parts of the village. When Mr. McMahon's plans were submitted to the Wisconsin Industrial commission at Madison they were not only approved but highly commended and came back without objection.

From the time this civic improvement was outlined more than one year ago, Anton Jensen, village president and the village council have worked continuously to economize both time and money and have sought to bring this project to a rapid and successful end.

The well was started in July and pronounced completed by Dr. Bagg October 17, 1923, when the well was flowing 77,142 gallons in 24 hours.

LITTLE CONTAGION HERE, CITY HEALTH OFFICER DECLARES

Few Cases Of Diphtheria And Scarlet Fever Hold Doctors' Attention

While other Wisconsin cities are worried over the increasing contagion in their midst, the health outlook in Appleton is still favorable, according to Dr. W. C. Felton, city health commissioner.

There was a time shortly before the reopening of schools when the last remnants of last winter's diphtheria epidemic seemed to have been eradicated. But with the resumed intercourse of school children, new cases of the disease arose. There are at present, however, only three cases of diphtheria, and one of them probably will be released from quarantine by Sunday.

Two cases of scarlet fever were reported to the health officer in one day. They are the only cases of that kind and are about 12 days old. A typhoid fever case was contracted by one person while on his vacation. Dr. Felton also observed before the rains of this week a prevalence of intestinal trouble accompanied by a high temperature. Families should be on guard against colds and grip at this time of the year he said.

A new drainage district is to be organized in Outagamie-co in consequence of a meeting of farmers from the western part of the county at the court house this week. It will be another joint project and will concern the town of Deer Creek in Outagamie-co and the town of Bear Creek in Waupaca-co. A lowland area of about 3,000 acres in the two towns is to be drained. A hearing was held before County Judge John Estrangues, Attorney John Morgan represented the county drainage board.

Mr. and Mrs. Carl Koehnke have returned from Green Bay where they attended the marriage of Mrs. Koehn-

There has been an abundance of wild game in the fishing grounds of the coupe and for muskrats, according to W. J. Johnson of Route des Morts. Low water in the spring and summer has been decidedly favorable. With the water controlled, the fur farmer can put his muskrats in shape for good profit, he said, but when it is rising four feet or more it is quite impossible to ditch or light light low.

This 5-Room Cottage Can Be Built For $7,700

PHOTO AND PLANS BY THE CURTIS SERVICE BUREAU, CLINTON, IA. FOR FIVE-ROOM ENGLISH COTTAGE.

A one-story house with two bedrooms, this plan has an unusual number of desirable features. It is a departure from the cut-and-dried bungalow, both in exterior appearance and arrangement of rooms. Stucco was selected for its construction, because of its economical upkeep, but brick or shingles would be equally attractive for this type of home.

The layout is planned for coolness in warm weather and for complete isolation of the various portions of the house—the living portion, the service rooms and the sleeping quarters.

BREEZY LIVING ROOM
The living room extends straight through the middle of the house from front to back. It is protected from the heat of the sun by other rooms at the sides and the cozy, recessed porch in front. In the living room, English wood paneling extends from floor to head casings. In both living and dining rooms there are fireplaces, reducing greatly the amount of service required from the heating system provided. A corner china cabinet and grouped easements on two sides are attractive features of the dining room.

The kitchen is an efficient size and well arranged with built-in conveniences. It has a door directly into the living room as well as into the dining room, which will save many steps for the housewife during a day's work. The adjoining rear entry provides a location for the refrigerator and a storage closet and has a window just at the head of the basement steps.

TWO BEDROOMS
On the other side of the house are two bedrooms with bathroom between. Each room has a clothes closet and a chiffonier-like tray case built in. Both have cross ventilation, the rear room having casements on two opposite sides.

The absence of any unnecessary ornamentation, such as huge columns, brackets, dormers or broken-up roof, make it economical of construction, and stock materials are used throughout, even in the woodwork of authentic English type.

Clearing Away the Fog

TRAINLOADS OF BEETS SENT TO BEET SUGAR FACTORIES

Large quantities of sugar beets are being shipped daily from various shipping centers of Outagamieco to the sugar factories at Green Bay and Neenah, Mich. While the yield is up to the average due to the drought during the summer, the difference is more than made up in increased acreage. Until the present rain the beets came out of the ground with very little earth clinging to them and were easy to handle on that account. Both sugar factories are operating at full capacity and will not complete their annual fall run for several weeks.

Surely the mighty strength that had set the powerful spring and the skill that covered up all traces of his work could succeed at last in freeing him from his slavery.

Bess had reached the shelter first and she was particularly relieved to see Ned's tall form swinging toward her along the shore. Doomsdorf was in a particularly ominous mood. The curious silver in his magnetic eyes was more pronounced than she had ever seen it—like in the shadows, steady in the lantern light, and his cruel savagery was just at the surface, ready to be awakened. Worst of all, the gaze he bent toward her was especially eager to-night, horrible to her as the cold touch of a reptile.

Every time she glanced up she found him regarding her, and he followed her with his eyes when she moved. Yet she dared not seek shelter in the new cabin, for the simple reason that she was afraid Doomsdorf would follow her there. Until Ned came, her defense was solely the presence of Lenore and the squaw.

There was no particular warmth in her meeting with Ned. Doomsdorf's eyes were still upon her, and she was careful to keep any hint of the new understanding out of her face and eyes. Ned's weather-beaten countenance was as expressionless as Sindy's own.

Four of them gathered about the little rough table, and again the squaw served them, from the shadows. It was a strange picture, there in the lantern light—the imperious face of the squaw, always half in shadow; the lurid wild-beast eyes of Doomsdorf gleaming under his shaggy brows; Lenore's beauty, a thing to hold the eyes; and Bess, horrified and fearful at what the next moment might bring. Hardly a word was exchanged from the meal's beginning to its end. Bess tried to call as to direct Doomsdorf's sinister thoughts, but the words would not come to her lips. The man seemed eager to finish the meal.

As soon as they had moved from the table toward the little store, and the squaw had begun the work of clearing away the dishes, Doomsdorf halted at Bess' side. For a moment he gazed down at her, a great hand resting on her chair.

"You're a pretty little hell-cat," he told her in curiously muffled tones. "That makes me a fighter."

"She tried to meet his eyes. "I have to be in this climate," she answered. "Where would you get your furs?"

He uttered one great hoarse syllable, as if in the beginning of laughter. "That's not what I mean, and you know it. You'd sooner walk ten miles through the snow than give an inch, wouldn't you?" His hand reached, closing gently upon her arm, and a shiver of repulsion passed over her. "What's a fine little muscle like you don't want to work it off. Why don't you show a little friend ship?"

The girl looked with difficulty into his great, drawn face. Ned stiffened, wondering if the moment of crisis were at hand at last. Lenore watched appalled, but the native went on about her tasks as if she hadn't heard.

"You can't expect—much friend-ship from a prisoner," Bess told him brokenly. Her face so white in the lantern light, her trembling lips, most of all the appeal for help in her child's eyes—called to the beast compared with whom even the North was merciful—wakened a surging, desperate anger in Ned. The room turned red before his eyes, his muscles quivered, and he was rapidly reaching that point wherein his self-control, on which life itself depended, was jeopardized. Yet he must hold himself with an iron hand. He must wait to the last instant of need. Everything depended on that. In avoiding the crisis until he had made some measure of preparation.

"Your little friend seems to be getting nervous," he remarked easily to Bess. "So not to disturb him further, let's you and I go to the new cabin. I've taken some fine pelts lately—I want you to see them. You need a new coat."

He seemed to be aware of the gathering suspense, and it thrilled his diseased nerves with exultation. But there was, from his listeners but one significant response at first to the evil suggestion that he made with such iniquitous fines in his wild eyes and even a slight suppressed tone in his voice. Bess' expression did not change. It had already revealed the uttermost depths of dread. Ned still held himself, cold, now, as a serpent, waiting for his chance. But the squaw raised a single instant in her work. For one breath she had failed to hear the clatter of her heels. But seemingly indifferent, she immediately went back to her toil.

Bess shook her head in desperate appeal. "Wait till morning," she pleaded. "I'm tired now."

Ned saw by the gathering fury of the master's face that her refusal would only bring on the crisis, so he leaped swiftly into the "reach." "Sure, Bess, let's go look at them," he said. "I'm anxious to see 'em, too."

Doomsdorf whirled to him, and his gaze was as a trail of fire to Ned. Yet the latter did not flinch. For a long second they regarded each other in implacable hatred, and then Doomsdorf's sudden start told that he had been visited by inspiration. His beaming look of contempt was almost a smile. "Sure, come along," he said. "I've got something to say to you, but to spare Lenore's feelings, we'll go to the other cabin."

Ned was not in the least deceived by this reference to Lenore. Doomsdorf had further cause, other than regard for Lenore's sensibilities, for continuing their conversation in the other cabin. What it was Ned did not know, and he dared not think. And he had a vague impression that while he and Doomsdorf had waged their battle of eyes, Bess had mysteriously moved from her position. He had left her just at Doomsdorf's side, when he saw her again, she was fully ten feet distant, within a few feet of the cupboard where the squaw kept many of the food supplies, and now was busy with her parka of caribou skin.

She led the way out into the clear, icy night. It was one of those still, clear late winter evenings, not so cold as it had been, when the frozen snow-swept world gave no image of reality to the senses. The snow wastes and the velvet depths of the sky were hazy, flashing with a thousand ever-changing hues from the giant halos of the Northern Lights. Moved and held by this wonder that never grows old to the northern man, Doomsdorf halted them just without the cabin door.

"There's no need of going farther," he said in his deep, rumbling voice. "There was no need of even coming here. You seem to be forgetting, you two, where you are—all the things I told you at first."

He paused, and his voice had dropped, and the tone was strange and even, dreadful to hear, when he spoke again. "I've evidently been too easy with you," he went on. "I'll see that I correct that fault in the future. You, Ned, made a serious mistake when you interrupted in this matter tonight. I'll see if I can't teach you to keep your place. And Bess—long ago I told you that your body and soul were mine—to do with them as I liked. You seemed to have forgotten, but I found that you will talk to me—again."

But Ned still faced him when he paused, eyes steady, his face an iron gray in the wan light. His training had been hard and true, and he still found strength to stand erect.

"I want to tell you this—in reply," he answered in the clear, firm voice of one who has mastered fear. "We know well enough what you can do to us. But that doesn't mean that we're going to yield to you—to every one of your evil wishes. Life isn't so pleasant to either of us that we'll submit to everything in order to live. No matter what you do to me—I know what I'll do to you if you try to carry out your wicked designs by force."

Doomsdorf eyed him calmly, but the smile of contempt was wholly gone from his lips. "You'll show fight?" he asked.

"With every ounce I've got! You may master me—with every advantage of weapons and physical strength—but you'll have to kill me first. Bess will kill herself before she'll yield to you. You won't be better off—you'll simply have no one to do your trapping for you. It isn't worth it, Doomsdorf."

He eyed them a moment, coolly and casually. When I want anything, Ned, I want it bad enough to pay all I've got for it," he said in a remarkably even tone. "Don't presume that I value your lives so much that I'll turn one step from my course. Be sides, Ned—you won't be here!"

Prices Of Coal Now At Level Which Will Hold For All Winter

Owners Of Coal Mine Stock Faced With Overproduction And Demands Of Unions For Higher Wages, Babson Points Out

Wellesley Hills, Mass.—There seems to be plenty of coal according to a statement issued by Roger W. Babson, the statistician, who has just completed a survey of the coal situation.

"A year ago, this country was emerging from the chaos of the great bituminous coal strike of 1922," says Mr. Babson. "The output for practically five months, April through August, was held on a minimum level. As a result, the total production of bituminous coal last year was the smallest in twelve years. Not only were stocks of coal low, but transportation facilities were unable to meet the urgent demand from manufacturing interests. It was difficult to obtain prompt and adequate deliveries. Consequently, prices of coal soared and remained high during the fall and early winter period.

PRICES WENT SOARING

"The average price of soft coal in October 1922 was $4.40 per ton at the mine—a level 266 per cent over the pre-war average. Today, we find contrary conditions. A strike this year was avoided and production held on practically a record basis. During the first 230 working days of this year the output has exceeded 413,433,000 tons, against 271,015,000 tons during the same period last year. In fact, we have produced more coal to date than was brought to the surface during the entire 12 months of 1922, the exact figure for last year being 407,834,000 tons. Incidentally, the output this year has been exceeded only once in the history of this country: that was in 1915, when 479,355,000 tons were produced. It is not surprising in view of current figures that commercial stocks of bituminous coal have jumped. Statistics show that on September 1, stocks were estimated at 56,000,000 tons, or the highest volume since April, 1922. Present stocks represent an increase of 35 per cent over the low last March and 300 per cent over a year ago.

"The effect of excessive soft coal production, large and increasing stocks, diminishing industrial demand and relatively favorable railroad conditions has been pulling the price level down month after month. With little interruption, prices have continued downward since August, 1922. Today, the price at the mines is approximately $2.40 per ton, or 100 per cent over pre-war levels, compared with 266 per cent a year ago. Economically, there cannot be a further marked price decline. In fact, conditions point toward a firm price level over the fall and winter months. We are now entering the period of maximum consumption and the customary seasonal strain on our railroads. Stock protection over the fall and early winter period should not be postponed.

NO OPTIMISM

"So far as the securities of coal companies are concerned, there is no occasion for anyone to become optimistic. To be sure, in the list of stocks and bonds of companies representative of the soft coal industry, there is wide variety. The stocks of the older and well-known companies are, by no means, low in price. In view of the general trend of the speculative market, there is no incentive for purchasing. For the long pull, stockholders must bear the brunt of the struggle which the industry faces, against the pressure of rising costs through union demands on the one hand, and a condition of over-production combined with increasing favor for oil as fuel to limit the selling price on the other.

Bonds issued by a coal mining company can hardly be said to have the qualifications commending them to conservative investors. In the first place, the mining industry represents a liquidating proposition, that is, each ton of coal taken out, reduces the assets ultimately available. Serial maturities, or a sinking fund charge, have been adopted in some cases to meet this objection. But such a fixed charge entails a serious depletion of working capital in times of full operation and makes the cost of coal mined practically prohibitive in times of severe competition. In any event, it must be obvious even on casual reflection that, after a period of years of large demand and good prices for coal such as we have had, any new borrowing either to expand mining operations or carry a large inventory, does not evidence conservatism.

"Under the present outlook for

BUYING OF STEEL CONTINUES BRISK

Pig Iron Price Is Falling But Demand For Steel Products Increases

Cleveland—Buying of steel continues in a rising volume and evidences of sound fundamental conditions grow more substantial and encouraging as October proceeds. Consumers are feeling their way and there are few urgent requests for material but the steady continuity of demand is impressive. The outstanding feature remains the return of the railroads to the market as large buyers of rolling stock and motive power. Bookings by steel companies generally in October show a good gain over September. With some large interests the tonnage this month to date is 20 per cent above September and 50 per cent above August. Steel Corporation mills because of accustomed sales practice are booking at a better rate than the independent plants, and now are entering new business at substantially two-thirds of shipments.

Sheet bookings for all mills forged ahead sharply in September and were the heaviest since May. Inquiries for 200 to 399 locomotives at least have appeared. Car orders now being big on immediately in sheet exceed 25,000.

IRON TRADE REVIEW composite of fourteen leading iron and steel products still reflects the falling pig iron market. This week it stands at $33.50 against $41.06 a week ago.

Marking a generally enlivened inquiry for building steel, are the negotiations of the Ford Motor Co. for 18,000 tons of material for its proposed steelworks and finishing mills at Detroit. The railroads again are inquiring for bridge work from 6,000 tons or more having come out this week. Building steel awards reported this week total 18,500 tons new inquiry being 44,000 tons.

Pig iron prices have slipped again and are 50 cents to $1 lower. Soaring prices for coke in Germany and France has directed large inquiries for furnace fuel to this country. Two cargoes, 5,000 and 8,000 tons respectively for the Ruhr are to be closed at Pittsburgh. German coke has been advanced this week to the equivalent of $13.62. The prevailing price on Connellsville furnace coke at present is $4.05.

New York reports 15,000 to 20,000 tons of additional business in light gage black sheets closed this week for Japan. At Chicago 3,000 tons of sheets and bars was placed this week. Other Japanese inquiries current for 30,000 kegs of spikes and miscellaneous cargoes of bars, wire rods, pipe, sheet bars etc.

A French producer has taken an order for 5,000 tons of cast iron pipe for the city of Los Angeles for shipment by way of the Panama canal.

ST. NORBERT COLLEGE QUARTER CENTURY OLD

Green Bay—Sunday is the date set by the faculty for a public celebration of the twenty-first anniversary of establishment of St. Norbert's college at DePere. St. Norbert's was founded upon a suggestion of Archbishop Messmer to the priests of the Fremont-stratification, order in 1898.

Less than half a dozen students were enrolled when the school opened for the first time, while at present the registration list is over two hundred. From a single makeshift classroom the school has grown to a group of four commodious buildings.

Religious services, a meeting of the alumni association, and a banquet will feature the observance of the anniversary.

business the Babsonchart shows it this week at 10 per cent below normal. I would rather have the bond of the power company or railroad which uses the coal than to cast my lot with the fortunes of the coal mining industry."

MILLS UNABLE TO MEET DEMAND FOR BUILDING LUMBER

Manufacturers Believe Construction Will Be Carried On Into Winter

Trade in lumber continues brisk and the market remains strong, says the American Lumberman, Chicago. Southern pine bookings have decreased from the above-normal level attained during September. However, the decrease appears to be due as much to the inability of mills to accept orders as to an actual slackening of demand in a few distributing centers. Mill stocks are badly broken following the recent heavy buying, and it is often extremely difficult to place orders, especially if quick delivery is required. Some retailers, having done a little better in the market, have increased their stock, being unwilling to enter the winter with less than is absolutely necessary. Further requirements will be bought on the hand-to-mouth basis. But as building keeps up excellently and prospects are that much construction will be carried on through the winter, these retailers will undoubtedly find it necessary to reenter the market frequently for replenishments. The call is still largely for yard lumber, for both city and country, but industrial items also are active and export business is reported to have shown an appreciable gain lately. Prices remain firm.

A big spurt in exports is reported by Douglas fir manufacturers. Demand from everywhere continues strong, and bookings by the mills reporting to the West Coast Lumberman's Association during the first week of this month totaled 30 per cent above normal and 5 per cent above production. Fifty-seven per cent of these bookings were for water shipment—$2,000,000 feet for domestic delivery and 35,000,000 feet for export. California remains a big customer and the Atlantic seaboard seeks stocks eagerly. Local demand is heavy, due to building activity throughout the Pacific Northwest, and the call from the middle West is considerably stronger than during the summer. Mill stocks are in poor condition and prices hold strong. Demand for western pines has shown a big increase, and prices of both inland Empire and California shops are stronger. Hardwood manufacturers still enjoy good business. Sap gum is the strongest wood on the southern list, and maple the strongest on the northern. Prices are unchanged but generally firm at recent levels.

KEPT SECRET OF SLAYING 10 YEARS

Kenosha Police Are Put On Trial Of Murder Committed At Park Falls

Kenosha—A statement made by a man believed to be dying which came Friday from the faltering lips of a 72 year old invalid, has started police on an investigation of what may prove to be a slaying kept a secret for more than ten years.

The statement was made by John Gustave Spranger, who suffered a paralytic stroke a week ago, and according to his story was "to ease his conscience if he should die."

It involves a death duel at a saloon near Park Falls, Wis., in 1913, and the secret burial of the body on a farm in that vicinity.

Kenosha police while not overlooking the fact that Spranger may be suffering from a mental hallucination, have wired the Park Falls authorities to search the territory where the aged man said the body was buried.

Spranger, who was stricken last week, took a sudden turn for the worse Friday. Although hardly able to speak above a whisper, he began the dramatic recital of the murder. District Attorney Frank Symonds was called and had a written statement taken.

"One night back in 1913," Spranger said, "another man and I were playing cards in a tavern near Park Falls. The bartender got into the game."

"Then my friend and the bartender quarreled. They went outside to settle the quarrel, and a minute later I saw the bartender fall with a bullet through his heart."

"The other man and I took his body to my farm where we buried it."

WEST BEND MASONIC TEMPLE IS BURNED

FREMONT-ZITTAU ROAD COMPLETED BY SUNDAY

Work on the Winchester-Fremont-Zittau road has been completed and the highway probably will be opened to traffic on Sunday, according to a report from the highway office of Winnebago Co. Shoulder work on the Rineau also is practically completed and it is expected that the detour may be lifted on a three mile section in a few days. The road may be opened to traffic Sunday for one day only.

RAILROAD FREIGHT BUSINESS LESS IN LAST HALF OF 1923

Net Earnings Have Been Declining Since June, I. C. C. Report Shows

Calling attention to the fact that the reported percentage of net return earned monthly by the railways has been declining since the first half of the present year, the Railway Age points out that the freight business of the railways has not been showing the increase in the second half that it did in the first half of the year, and even has shown some reductions. In fact, while their freight business was larger in the first five months of this year than in the corresponding months of 1920, statistics recently made public by the Interstate Commerce Commission show that in June and July their total business was less than in the corresponding months of 1920.

"The percentage of net return monthly by the railways upon their valuation showed a decline in the last three months for which the statistics are available—June, July and August," says the Railway Age. "The return earned in the five months ending with May was reported as at the annual rate of 5.69 per cent. In June it was only 5.47 per cent, in July 4.53 per cent and in August 4.34 per cent. In consequence the average for the first eight months of the year was only 5.4 per cent."

"The tendency shown in disappointing results reported for the early part of the year had given rise to a hope that in the entire year the carriers would earn the 5 1/2 per cent upon their valuation to which the Interstate Commerce Commission holds that they are entitled.

"The estimate made for each month of the annual rate at which net return was earned is based, in view of past experience, upon the assumption that there will be certain seasonal fluctuations in traffic. In view of the usual experience of the past it is assumed that traffic and earnings will more or less steadily increase until a peak is reached in October.

"The principal reason why the statistics show a decline in the percentage of net return earned since about the middle of the year is disclosed by statistics just issued by the Interstate

WISCONSIN BUILDING GREATER THAN IN 1922

Wisconsin building contracts in September amounted to $3,940,860, according to F. W. Dodge Corporation. This was a decrease of 21% from the previous month and of 15% from the corresponding month of last year. Half of last month's total of $2,002,480, was for residential buildings. Total construction started in Wisconsin during the first 9 months of this year has amounted to $51,336,600, an increase of 6% over the first 9 months of 1922.

PEACOCK TRAINS

Commerce Commission regarding the monthly ton mileage of freight business. Although there is the same number of days in May and July, and although traffic in July usually is larger than that in May, the July traffic this year actually was somewhat smaller than that of May. In the first five months of 1923 the number of tons carried one mile was approximately 155,509,000,000, while in the first five months of 1922 it was approximately 170,500,000,000. On the other hand, in June and July, 1920, the total ton mileage was more than 72,000,000,000, while in June and July, 1923 it was less than 69,000,000,000.

The statistics of car loadings indicated that freight business continued to break records in June and July, but these statistics do not allow for changes in the average loading per car, which has been less this year than in 1920, or for changes in the average haul per ton, which also has been slightly less than in 1920. The number of tons carried one mile is the true measure of total freight business."

OF PRISON PASTOR
Quarterly Meeting Reports Show $6,000 Paid On Church Building Debt

Mount Olive Evangelical Lutheran church will join with about 100 other Lutheran congregations in northeastern Wisconsin in supporting an institutional pastor who will devote his entire time to the spiritual interests of inmates of institutions like the reformatory at Green Bay, the penitentiary at Waupun, the insane asylums and other such places.
This was decided by the congregation at the quarterly business meeting in the church Friday evening. There were 61 members present, and V. J. Beyer, vice president, acted as chairman. Encouraging financial reports were presented and arrangements made for a get-together supper next month. Several new members also were received.
Various pastors nearest to institutions have been trying to serve the inmates of Lutheran faith, but their spiritual care has not been adequate because of inability of ministers to devote enough time to this work. A pastor therefore is to be engaged who is familiar with institutional service, and he will spend his entire time among the various havens of the unfortunate.
Six thousand dollars has been paid off on the church building debt since Jan. 1, 1923, according to the financial secretary's report on the building fund. The expense fund report showed the treasury to be in a flourishing condition.
Louis Freude was appointed chairman of arrangements for the get-together supper of families of the church Friday, Nov. 2. Its purpose will be for acquaintanceship and social intermingling. A program is to follow the supper.
Members of Mr. Freude's committee are Earl Bauerfeind, B. O. Mayerhoff and Reno Doerfler.

FIRST SNOWFALL
OF SEASON TODAY

Saturday, Oct. 20, 1923, goes down in the weatherman's diary as the day on which Appleton had its first snowfall.
Didn't you see it? To tell the truth, it didn't give the ground a white blanket, nor did it even wet the sidewalks. It surely was not sufficient quantity to make kids dust off their sleds. But the flakes fell for about five minutes shortly before noon, and people on the street or gazing out of windows took occasion to remark to their friends that here was the first snowfall of the year.
Hopefuls haven't given up the idea that the balmy weather characteristic of the fall this year will continue. The prediction of the weatherman says the temperature will be warmer after Tuesday.
The real optimist, however, is the business man who remarked "Don't forget that we haven't had our Indian summer yet."

Walter Steininger Draws 30
Day Sentence In County Workhouse

After being sentenced in municipal court Saturday to spend 30 days in the workhouse in addition to paying a fine of $25 plus costs of $4 with the alternative of serving an additional 30 days in default of the fine, Walter Steininger, 542 Washington-st., a salesman, was released on bail. He was charged with driving an automobile while being intoxicated. He will appeal from Judge A. M. Spencer's decision to the circuit court.
Seventy-five sentences passed this season for that kind of offense.
Steininger attracted the attention of Wilbur Bogan, county motorcycle officer, Friday evening, and was pursued by him into the city. Bogan attempted to arrest him at the corner of Drew-st and College-ave, but the man resisted the officer. Officer Bogan and Patrolman Joseph Rankin conducted the struggling man to the police station where he was locked up until the time for his appearance in court.
The man was highly indignant over his arrest. When arraigned in court he expostulated on the ingratitude of police officers. Some time ago he had found a purse containing about $40 in money and $700 in securities, he said. But instead of pocketing the valuables he took them to the police station, he told the court.
In sentencing the man to pay a fine of $25 and serve 30 days in the workhouse, Judge Spencer declared that the sentence would be prolonged to 60 days, if the fine were not paid. The fine had not been paid by Saturday noon.

Form Art Department At
Appleton Womans Club

Every woman who is interested in any form of art, whether it be antique furniture and oriental rugs or sculpture and murals is wanted for the first meeting of Appleton Womans club's new department, which will have its meeting at the clubhouse at 3 o'clock Monday afternoon. The department has been organized at the request of many women who are interested in furthering their knowledge in all forms of art. Mrs. Mark Catlin is chairman of the department.
By working in connection with the art department of the Wisconsin Federation of Womans clubs, the new department hopes to encourage the study of art within the state, to establish a series of free art lectures, to create sentiment for real art as a part of the community life, to secure pictures suitable for schools and municipalities for civic buildings, to create public interest in a city beautiful, to collect and preserve objects of historic value such as furniture, costumes, lace and china, to bring the best of art before the children and to encourage the development of the possibilities of art in the modern home.
Exhibitions of the work of contemporary American and European artists can be brought to Appleton if the department has the support of an enthusiastic group of women. Mrs. Catlin has not arranged the program for the year because she wishes to have all the women have an opportunity to get what they want during the year.

BONUS LAW WOULD
STOP TAX REVISION

what the 'radicals' are likely to propose is a revival of the excess profits tax. They also want to increase the rates on surtaxes from 40 per cent to 50 per cent. Every business man who has studied this question at all knows that to make such an increase would discourage investments and generally depress the prosperity of the country through the ill effects on the business world. Even today there is complaint against the present surtax rates and I haven't a guess in the world that if we reduced our surtaxes even to 25 per cent, the government would collect more money than it is collecting today at 40 per cent rates. Business men will not develop their markets or increase their volume of transactions if they have no incentive or if they feel they must give practically all of their profit to the revenue collectors.
"Business in America ought to have a chance to breathe. It is useless to oppose the business world with a promise of a cut in taxation if you know that the result is likely worse for business than what you have at present.
BONUS BOUND TO COME
"As for the bonus, it is bound to come up and seems certain to be passed. There is no way of estimating what the bonus will cost though various estimates of the various plans suggested it is believed the whole thing will amount to $1,250,000,000.
If there is to be a bonus bill, there can hardly be tax reductions."
Some of the proponents of tax revision are saying to Senator Smoot that if an unsatisfactory bill is passed by congress, the president can always veto it and no harm done because the radicals couldn't muster a two thirds vote to make it a law. But on the other hand, Mr. Smoot thinks the political consequences of such a veto would be fatal as it would put the administration on the defensive throughout the campaign, business would have been upset by the uncertainty which always attends a period of tax debate in congress, and no relief would be forthcoming to anybody. That's why the chairman of the senate finance committee says "let well enough alone."

LUTZ, OUT OF COMA.
ON WAY TO RECOVERY
The condition of Lorenz Lutz, son of Mr. and Mrs. Fred Lutz, 1400 Second-st who was injured in a collision Sunday, and who has been unconscious most of the time since, was greatly improved Friday and there is every indication he will recover. He is no longer delirious and is now conscious of everything going on about him. At the consultation of doctors Thursday afternoon it was the general opinion his condition was favorable and that he was making a good progress as could be expected.

JEWETT SIX
PAIGE BUILT

Try to Pass It On a Hill
Then You Will KNOW Jewett Six Has More Power

LOTS of "boulevard beauties" are "duds" when asked to climb! That's where real ability shows. And that's where the new Jewett Six is daily out-shining "light" sixes—and cars costing far more than Jewett.
The new Jewett Six outclasses all cars its size. It has a full 50 h.p. six-cylinder motor—Paige-built. Cylinders are 3 1/4 x 5 inches—which means 249 cubic inches of piston displacement. Check those figures against any "light" six. Form your own opinion of performance-possibilities of lesser-powered cars.
Having such power, Jewett Six need not be skimped in an effort to attain performance. Nor is it 6-inch-deep frame, husky Paige-Timken axles, front and rear, all-steel universal joints, springs 80% of wheelbase. The new Jewett weighs 2605 pounds—from 200 to 420 pounds more than "light" six cars of the same size.
And with all this husky strength and weight—Jewett drives from 2 to 60 miles an hour in high; passes most any car on any hill; accelerates from 5 to 25 miles an hour in 7 seconds in high. [Try that with any other car!]
Yet Jewett Six costs only $1065 [at Detroit]. Old-time motorists are amazed at its performance, stamina and astounding value. Drive it yourself. Call us up. Have a ride, any time. You'll agree that Jewett outperforms most any other car you've ever driven—particularly when compared with "light" sixes of less power, less weight, less strength and durability! (c23)
